

SUMMER SYMPOSIUM ON FOREIGN POLICY PROGRAM SCHEDULE 2023

(SUBJECT TO CHANGE)

The Summer Symposium is a hybrid program. This schedule identifies the events we can broadcast on Zoom at. The Zoom link will be provided later. ALL times are stated in Eastern Standard Time (EST), so if you live in another zone, please make the adjustment. All sessions are for one hour. Missing days and times are site visits that we cannot broadcast. The bios for the various speakers follow the daily schedule.

JULY 31 (MONDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. – 11:00 A.M. Dr. Shelton Williams, Osgood Center, “Welcome to the 43rd Annual Summer Symposium”
- 11:00 A.M. – 12:00 P.M. Richard Haass, President of the Council on Foreign Relations, “Trends in Global Affairs”
- 1:00 P.M. - 2:00 P.M. Charlotte Hulme, Assistant Professor of Political Science, U.S. Military Academy, “Grand Strategy in American Foreign Policy”
- 6:30 P.M. – 8:30 P.M. Reception, Watergate Apartments

AUGUST 1 (TUESDAY)

- 11:30 A.M. - 12:30 A.M. Casey Burgat, Professor GW Political Management Program, “Political Divisiveness in American Politics”
- 1:30 P.M. - 2:30 P.M. Trita Parsi, Executive Vice President of the Quincy Institute for Responsible Statecraft, “The New Middle East, Iran, and Beyond”

AUGUST 2 (WEDNESDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. – 11:00 A.M. Daryl Kimball, Executive Director of the Arms Control Association, “Nuclear Weapons in Global Politics”
- 11:15 A.M. - 12:15 P.M. Sarah Hillware, Gavi, The Vaccine Alliance, “Global Health: Truly Global? A case for greater representation to achieve equity”
ZOOM
- 2:00 P.M. - 3:00 P.M. Donald Jensen, Senior Advisor on Russia and Europe, U.S. Institute for Peace, “Ukraine, Russia, and the West”

AUGUST 3 (THURSDAY)

- 9:00 A.M. - 10:00 A.M. Jenny Town, Stimson Center, "The Two Koreas", ZOOM
- 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Gerlinde Groitl, Professor Regensburg University, "Europe and the U.S. in World Affairs"
- 2:00 P.M. - 3:00 P.M. Michael O'Hanlon, Director of Foreign Policy Research, Brookings Institution, "National Security in a Changing World Environment"

AUGUST 4 (FRIDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Adam Smith, Partner Gibson Dunn Law Firm, "Sanctions in U.S. Foreign Policy"
- 11:15 A.M. – 12:15 P.M. Dylan Walsh, Assistant Analyst, Sovereign Risk Group, "Latin America in U.S. Foreign Policy"
- 1:00 P.M. – 2:00 P.M. Bill Moeller, Director of the Office of East African Affairs at the US Department of State, TBA
- 2:40 P.M. – 4:40 P.M. Congressional Visitor Center (15 participants)

AUGUST 5 (SATURDAY)

- 9:20 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Congressional Visitor Center (15 participants)
- 1:45 P.M. – 3:45 P.M. National Museum of African American History and Culture

AUGUST 7 (MONDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Andrew Hyde, Director and Senior Fellow Multilateral Financial Diplomacy and Powering Peace, Stimson Center, "Multilateral Diplomacy and Fragile States" Event will be held at the Stimson Center
- 11:15 A.M. - 12:15 P.M. Ryan Fletcher, Research Associate Conventional Defense Program, Stimson Center, "Provision of Military Assistance to Governments that Use and Recruit Child Soldiers" Event will be held at the Stimson Center
- 2:00 P.M. - 3:00 P.M. Robert Daly, Director of the Kissinger Institute on China and the United States at the Woodrow Wilson Center, "How China Sees the World" Event will be held at the Wilson Center
- 4:00 P.M. –5:00 P.M. Aude Darnal, Research Associate Reimagining US Grand Strategy Program The Global South in the World Order Project, Stimson, Center, "The Global South in the World Order Project" ZOOM

AUGUST 8 (TUESDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Jeremi Suri, Mack Brown Distinguished Chair for Leadership in Global Affairs and Professor of Public Affairs and History, Texas Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, University of Texas at Austin, "India in World Politics" Z O O M
- 11:30 A.M. – 1:30 P.M. Congressional Visitor Center, 15 TICKETS
- 2:00 P.M. - 3:00 P.M. Robert Sutter, Elliott School of International Affairs, "The U.S. and China"

AUGUST 9 (WEDNESDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Visit to the Embassy of the Philippines, "The Philippines and the World"
Philippines Chancery Annex 1617 Massachusetts Avenue N.W. 20036
- 2:00 P.M. - 3:00 P.M. International Monetary Fund, speaker TBA

AUGUST 10 (THURSDAY)

- 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M. Megan Hogan, Peterson Institute for International Economics (PIIE), "U.S. International Economic Policy"
- 11:00 A.M. - 12:00 P.M. Shane Harris, National Security Correspondent for the Washington Post, "Covering Foreign Policy in Washington, D.C."

Things to Explore in D.C.

Free Tours by Foot

<https://freetoursbyfoot.com/top-things-to-do-in-dc-august/>

Kennedy Center

<https://www.kennedy-center.org/whats-on/explore-by-genre/theater/2022-2023/shear-madness/>

Biographical Highlights

SHELTON WILLIAMS

Shelton Williams is the president and founder of the Osgood Center for International Studies. Before the Osgood Center, he spent over 35 years as a professor at Austin College in Sherman, Texas, where he supervised its award-winning Model United Nations team and earned several major teaching awards for his classes in International Relations, American Foreign Policy, and Comparative Politics. In addition, Dr. Williams is an expert on nuclear nonproliferation policy, and has worked in the State Department under Secretary Madeline Albright and in Office of International Programs in the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. He holds a Ph.D. in international relations from Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University.

RICHARD N. HAASS

Dr. Richard Haass is a veteran diplomat, a prominent voice on American foreign policy, and an established leader of nonprofit institutions. He is the president of the Council on Foreign Relations.

In 2013, he served as the chair of the multiparty negotiations in Northern Ireland. From 2001 to 2003, Dr. Haass was director of policy planning for the Department of State, where he directed the policy planning staff and was a principal advisor to Secretary of State Colin Powell. Confirmed by the U.S. Senate to hold the rank of ambassador, Dr. Haass also served as U.S. coordinator for policy toward the future of Afghanistan and U.S. envoy to the Northern Ireland peace process.

Dr. Haass has extensive additional government experience. From 1989 to 1993, he was special assistant to President George H.W. Bush and senior director for Near East and South Asian affairs on the staff of the National Security Council. Previously, he served in the Departments of State and Defense, and was a legislative aide in the U.S. Senate.

A Rhodes Scholar, Dr. Haass holds a bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and master's and doctorate of philosophy degrees from Oxford University. He has also received numerous honorary degrees and was a member of the faculty of Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government and Hamilton College. Dr. Haass is the author or editor of fourteen books on American foreign policy and one book on management.

CHARLOTTE HULME

Charlotte Hulme is Assistant Professor of International Affairs and Deputy-Director of the Rupert H. Johnson Grand Strategy Program. Her research and teaching interests include grand strategy old and new, the role of corporations and subnational actors in shaping the 21st century global arena, and climate change and the future of world order. Charlotte has conducted research in India, Sierra Leone, Rwanda, and Germany and pursued professional opportunities at the Africa Center for Strategic Studies and U.S. State Department in Washington, D.C., and at the U.S. Mission to the African Union in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

She received her Ph.D. in Political Science from Yale University, M.Phil. in International Relations from the University of Cambridge, and B.A. from Wellesley College.

CASEY BURGAT

Casey Burgat is the director of the Legislative Affairs program at the Graduate School of Political Management (GSPM).

Prior to joining GSPM, Dr. Burgat was a Senior Governance Fellow at the R Street Institute where his research focused on issues of congressional capacity and reform. In this role, Casey wrote regularly for both scholarly and journalistic publications, including CNN, the Washington Post, and Politico, and appeared on a variety of television and radio outlets. Dr. Burgat coauthored Congress Explained: Representation and Lawmaking in the First Branch, a textbook on all things Congress, published by the Sage/CQ Press in the fall of 2022.

Previously, Casey worked at the Congressional Research Service, where he served in the Executive Branch Operations and the Congress & Judiciary sections. There, he was responsible for responding to congressional requests about federal rulemaking, issues of congressional reform, the president's role in federal budgeting, federal advisory committees, and congressional staffing.

Casey is a graduate of Arizona State University, with a bachelor's degree in political science. He also holds a master's in political management from George Washington University and received his doctorate in government and politics from the University of Maryland, College Park, where his dissertation focused on the impacts of congressional staff.

TRITA PARSI

Trita Parsi is an award-winning author and the 2010 recipient of the Grawemeyer Award for Ideas Improving World Order. He is an expert on US-Iranian relations, Iranian foreign policy, and the geopolitics of the Middle East. He has authored three books on US foreign policy in the Middle East, with a particular focus on Iran and Israel.

Parsi was born in Iran but moved with his family at the age of four to Sweden to escape political repression in Iran. His father was an outspoken academic who was jailed by the Shah and then by the Ayatollah. He moved to the United States as an adult and studied foreign policy at Johns Hopkins' School for Advanced International Studies where he received his Ph.D. under Francis Fukuyama and Zbigniew Brzezinski.

He is the co-founder and former President of the National Iranian American Council. Parsi has followed Middle East politics through work in the field and extensive experience on Capitol Hill and at the United Nations. Parsi has worked for the Swedish Permanent Mission to the UN, where he served in the Security Council, and in the General Assembly's Third Committee.

In addition to his Ph.D., Parsi holds a master's degree in international relations from Uppsala University and a master's degree in economics from the Stockholm School of Economics. He has served as an adjunct professor of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University SAIS, New York University, and George Washington University, as well as an adjunct scholar at the Middle East Institute and as a Policy Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington DC. He currently teaches at Georgetown University.

He is fluent in Persian/Farsi, English, and Swedish. Parsi's articles on Middle East affairs have been published in the Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Los Angeles Times, Financial Times, Jane's Intelligence Review, the Nation, The American Conservative, the Jerusalem Post, The Forward, and others. He is a frequent guest on CNN, PBS's Newshour, NPR, the BBC, and Al Jazeera.

DARYL KIMBALL

Daryl G. Kimball has been Executive Director of the Arms Control Association (ACA) and publisher and contributor for the organization's monthly journal, Arms Control Today, since September 2001.

For more than two decades at ACA, Kimball has led the organization's education, research, and policy advocacy campaigns on a range of issues, including cancellation of new nuclear weapons programs, negotiation and ratification of the 2010 New START agreement, opposition to the controversial U.S.-India nuclear cooperation agreement, the conclusion of the 2015 P5+1 nuclear deal with Iran, efforts to promote entry into force of the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty and strengthen implementation of the nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, the negotiation of the 2014 Arms Trade Treaty, and strengthening the taboo against chemical weapons. He is a frequent expert source for reporters and policymakers, and has written and spoken extensively about nuclear arms control, disarmament, non-proliferation, and the effects of weapons production, testing, and use. In 2004, National Journal recognized him as one of the ten key individuals whose ideas will help shape the policy debate on the future of nuclear weapons. In 2011, the MacArthur Foundation recognized ACA as an "exceptional organization that effectively addresses pressing national and international challenges with an impact that is disproportionate to its small size."

From 1997 to 2001, he was the executive director of the Coalition to Reduce Nuclear Dangers, a consortium of 17 of the largest U.S. non-governmental organizations working together to strengthen national and international security by reducing the threats posed by nuclear weapons. While at the Coalition, Daryl coordinated community-wide education, research and lobbying campaigns for the CTBT, further deep and verifiable reductions in nuclear weapons stockpiles, and against the deployment of an unproven and ineffective national missile defense system.

From 1989-1997, Kimball worked as the Associate Director for Policy and later, the Director of Security Programs for Physicians for Social Responsibility (PSR), where he organized media, lobbying and public education campaigns against nuclear weapons production and testing, and research projects on the health and environmental impacts of the nuclear arms race. His work helped to expose and accelerate the cleanup of a toxic, Cold War-era nuclear weapons production site in his hometown of Oxford, Ohio. Through PSR, Daryl also spearheaded non-governmental efforts to win Congressional approval for the 1992 nuclear test moratorium legislation, to extend the test moratorium in 1993, to win U.S. support for a "zero-yield" test ban treaty, and for the U.N.'s endorsement of the CTBT in 1996.

Kimball was a former Herbert R. Scoville Peace Fellow (1989), a graduate of Miami University of Ohio (1986), where he received his B.A. in Political Science and Diplomacy/Foreign Affairs, and was the recipient of the Ohio Governor's Youth Award for Peace (1985)

SARAH HILLWARE

Sarah Hillware is an award-winning global health and development leader who was recognized in 2021 by Apolitical as one of the Top 100 Most Influential People in Policy for her work advancing gender equity in health. In her current role at Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance in the Office of the COVAX Facility, she is supporting COVID-19 vaccine delivery in low- and middle-income economies.

Sarah most recently served as the first Deputy Director of Women in Global Health, where she led efforts to scale the organization from a majority volunteer-led operation with minimal budget into a multi-year, multi-million-dollar NGO with a presence in more than 40 countries, majority of which were LMICs. Over the past 10+ years, she has led diverse teams and spearheaded several programs, including global funds and country-level projects across sectors totaling nearly US$3 billion in 39 countries. She has mobilized support for and worked on a diverse set of issues under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), including universal health coverage, gender equality, sexual and reproductive health, climate change and environmental health, and energy access. Previously, Sarah has held positions with the World Bank, World Health Organization, UN Refugee Agency, and UN World Food Programme, and in the private sector.

Sarah is also a 2X founder and former Executive Director of a nonprofit, Girls Health Ed, an organization delivering comprehensive health and sexuality education to girls and young women globally, for which she currently serves as Board Chair. Her research and experience as a social entrepreneur have led her to give two TEDx talks, and in 2014, she was named to the Leadership Center for Excellence 40 Under 40 list.

Sarah serves on the Board of Directors for the Osgood Center for International Studies and is a fellow of The Royal Society for Arts, Manufactures and Commerce (RSA), a London-based organization committed to finding practical solutions to social challenges.

DONALD JENSEN

Dr. Donald N. Jensen is the director for Russia and Europe at the U.S. Institute of Peace (USIP).

He joined USIP after four years with the Center for European Policy Analysis, where he was a senior fellow and editor in chief. Dr. Jensen writes extensively on Russian domestic politics and Russian foreign and security policies. He also specializes in the domestic and foreign policies of other post-Soviet states, especially Ukraine, Georgia, and the Baltic republics.

Dr. Jensen received his bachelor's from Columbia University and his master's and doctorate from Harvard University.

JENNY TOWN

Jenny Town is a Senior Fellow at the Stimson Center and the Director of Stimson's 38 North Program. Her expertise is in North Korea, US-DPRK relations, US-ROK alliance and Northeast Asia regional security. She was named one of Worth Magazine's "Groundbreakers 2020: 50 Women Changing the World" and one of Fast Company's Most Creative People in Business in 2019 for her role in co-founding and managing the 38 North website, which provides policy and technical analysis on North Korea.

Ms. Town is also an expert reviewer for Freedom House's Freedom in the World Index, where she previously worked on the Human Rights in North Korea Project; an Associate Fellow at the Foreign Policy Institute at Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), a Member of the National Committee on North Korea, and an Associate Member of the Council of Korean Americans. She serves on the Editorial Board for Inkstick, an online foreign policy journal for emerging scholars.

From 2008-2018, Ms. Town served as the Assistant Director of the US-Korea Institute at SAIS. She holds a BA in East Asian Studies and International Relations from Westmar University and a Master of International Affairs from Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs.

GERLINDE GROITL

Dr. Gerlinde Groitl serves as Associate Professor of International Politics and Transatlantic Relations at the University of Regensburg, Germany. Her research focuses on U.S., German, and European foreign and security policy, European-American (security) relations as well as the great power competition between Russia, China, and the West in a changing global order.

She publishes widely on these themes. The most recent of her to date three monographs exposes earlier hopes to turn Moscow and Beijing into stakeholders of a US-led global system as illusionary and calls for a determined policy of neo-containment toward both (Russia, China and the Revisionist Assault on the Western Liberal International Order, Palgrave Macmillan, 2023). Groitl is committed to policy-relevant scholarship as well as international, interdisciplinary, and cross-professional cooperation. She has held, among others, multiple visiting fellowships in Washington, DC, London, and Budapest, and is an alumna of the "Young Leaders in Security Policy" program of the German Federal Academy for Security Policy in Berlin.

MICHAEL O'HANLON

Michael E. O'Hanlon is a senior fellow and director of research in Foreign Policy at the Brookings Institution, where he specializes in U.S. defense strategy, the use of military force, and American national security policy.

He directs the Strobe Talbott Center on Security, Strategy and Technology, as well as the Defense Industrial Base working group, and is the inaugural holder of the Philip H. Knight Chair in Defense and Strategy. He co-directs the Africa Security Initiative as well. He is an adjunct professor at Columbia, Georgetown, and George Washington universities, and a member of the International Institute for Strategic Studies. He also serves as a member of the Defense Policy Board at the U.S. Department of Defense. O'Hanlon was a member of the external advisory board at the Central Intelligence Agency from 2011-12. O'Hanlon's latest book, "Military History for the Modern Strategist: America's Major Wars Since 1861" was published in January 2023.

O'Hanlon's other books include "The Art of War in an Age of Peace: U.S. Grand Strategy and Resolute Restraint"; "Defense 101: Understanding the Military of Today and Tomorrow"; "The Senkaku Paradox: Risking Great Power War over Limited Stakes"; "Beyond NATO: A New Security Architecture for Eastern Europe"; "The Future of Land Warfare"; and "Strategic Reassurance and Resolve: U.S.-China Relations in the 21st Century". He edited "Brookings Big Ideas for America". Previously, he wrote "Crisis on the Korean Peninsula" (with Mike Mochizuki, McGraw-Hill, 2003); "Winning Ugly: NATO's War to Save Kosovo"; and about a dozen other books.

O'Hanlon has written several hundred op-eds in major domestic and international newspapers. His articles have appeared in Foreign Affairs, The National Interest, Survival, Washington Quarterly, Joint Forces Quarterly, and International Security, among other publications. O'Hanlon has appeared on television or spoken on the radio more than 4,000 times since September 11, 2001.

O'Hanlon was an analyst at the Congressional Budget Office from 1989-1994, where he won the Director's Award in 1992. He also worked previously at the Institute for Defense Analyses. His doctorate from Princeton is in public and international affairs, where he was awarded a National Science Foundation fellowship. His bachelor's and master's degrees, also from Princeton, are in the physical sciences. He served as a Peace Corps volunteer in the Democratic Republic of Congo from 1982-84, where he taught college and high school physics in French. Earlier, he worked on a dairy farm in Upstate New York, where he grew up, and attempted (unsuccessfully) with a team of Princeton experimental physicists in the "Gravity Group" to disprove Einstein's General Theory of Relativity.

ADAM SMITH

Adam M. Smith is a partner in the Washington, D.C. office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher and serves as co-chair of the firm's International Trade Practice Group. He is an experienced international lawyer with a focus on international trade compliance and white-collar investigations, including with respect to federal and state economic sanctions enforcement, CFIUS, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, embargoes, and export and import controls.

Mr. Smith has been consistently ranked nationally by Chambers USA and Chambers Global as a leading attorney in International Trade: Export Controls & Economic Sanctions since 2019. In 2023, The Best Lawyers in America® recognized him for International Trade and Finance Law. Mr. Smith is also recognized as a Thought Leader for Trade & Customs – International Sanctions law by Who's Who Legal, and is recommended in their 2023 Who's Who Legal's Thought Leaders: USA, 2023 Who's Who Legal Thought Leaders – Global Elite, and 2022 Who's Who Legal Trade & Customs guides. In addition, he was identified by Global Investigations Review as one of the leading sanctions practitioners in Washington, DC.

From 2010-2015 Mr. Smith served in the Obama Administration as the Senior Advisor to the Director of the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) and as the Director for Multilateral Affairs on the National Security Council in the White House. At OFAC he played a primary role in all aspects of the agency's work, including briefing Congressional and private sector leadership on sanctions matters, shaping new Executive Orders, regulations, and policy guidance for both strengthening sanctions (Russia and Syria) and easing measures (Burma and Cuba), and advising on enforcement actions following sanctions violations.

Mr. Smith traveled extensively in Europe, the Middle East, Asia, Africa, and the Americas conducting outreach with governments and private sector actors on sanctions, risk, and compliance.

DYLAN WALSH

Dylan Walsh is an analyst for the Sovereign Risk Group. He is also currently pursuing a master's degree in Latin American Studies and International Economics at Johns Hopkins University's Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS).

He has had relevant research and teaching experience both internationally and domestically. He launched his professional career with WorldTeach Colombia, an organization that partners with governments in developing countries to provide volunteer teachers. He lived in Colombia, he taught in a prestigious school, and he served as an academic coordinator in an English program. While he engaged in these academic projects, he gained a deep understanding of Latin America and defined his professional goals. When he returned to D.C., his interests in international development and education led him to the Osgood Center for International Studies. As a Program Associate at the Osgood Center, he explored career options and became a research assistant in the Latin American Program at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

Dylan Walsh attended Ohio Wesleyan University, and he graduated cum laude with a double major in Latin American Studies and Spanish.

ANDREW HYDE

Andrew Hyde is a Director and Senior Fellow of the Multilateral Financial Diplomacy and Powering Peace programs at the Stimson Center. His areas of expertise are diplomatic engagement, national security, multilateral organizations, governance, and climate security.

Prior to coming to Stimson, Andrew served 28 years as a U.S. Foreign Service Officer. During his diplomatic tenure, Andrew worked extensively on multilateral diplomacy at the global and regional levels. He served as the interim NATO Deputy Senior Civilian Representative in Kabul where he helped lead Alliance diplomatic efforts in support of NATO's Resolute Support Mission in Afghanistan. Previously, in the Department's International Organizations Bureau, he led a team that provided a regional focus to U.S. multilateral engagement, especially at the United Nations. Prior to that, he was Deputy Director in the State Department's Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations in charge of developing international and nongovernmental partnerships aimed at enhancing collaboration on fragile and conflict-affected countries and regions.

Andrew has also worked on Capitol Hill, as a State Department Fellow in the House Armed Services Committee and, prior to joining the State Department, he was on the personal staff of Virginia Senator John Warner. Andrew has a Master's degree in National Resource Strategy from the Dwight Eisenhower School for National Security and Resource Strategy (National Defense University), and a BA in International Relations, Economics and Political Science from Dickinson College. He also has done graduate studies at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and the London School of Economics.

Andrew speaks and writes regularly on a range of foreign policy topics. He is a guest lecturer at the Elliott School of International Affairs, George Mason University, and other graduate programs on multilateral diplomacy and U.S. foreign policy. He has also delivered lectures on stabilization and governance policies in the context of a diplomatic strategy and U.S. policy in South Central Asia and co-authored a study for the United States Institute of Peace on Afghanistan's security requirements.

RYAN FLETCHER

Ryan Fletcher is a Research Associate with the Conventional Defense Program at the Stimson Center. His research focuses on the global arms trade, the use and export of armed drones, the provision of military assistance to governments that use and recruit child soldiers, and the development of international norms and standards to regulate the trade in and use of conventional weapons. Prior to joining Stimson, Ryan worked as a Program Associate for the Public International Law and Policy Group. He holds an M.A. in Law and Diplomacy from the Fletcher School and a B.A. in Political Science and Philosophy from George Washington University.

ROBERT DALY

Robert Daly is currently the Director of the Kissinger Institute on China and the United States at the Woodrow Wilson Center.

Robert Daly began his career in U.S- China relations as a diplomat with the United States Information Agency from 1989 to 1991, after which he taught Chinese at Cornell University. After teaching at Cornell University, Daly worked on several television projects in China and helped producing several Children's Television Workshop programs until 1999.

From 2001 to 2007, Daly was the American Director of the Johns Hopkins University-Nanjing University Center for Chinese and American Studies in China.

AUDE DARNAL

Aude Darnal is a Research Associate in the Stimson Center's Reimagining U.S. Grand Strategy Program, which seeks to challenge U.S. foreign policy conventional wisdom, question assumptions, and help policymakers manage risks, make informed decisions, and allocate resources wisely. She leads The Global South in the World Order Project, which seeks to elevate perspectives from the Global South on international affairs and global governance. She advocates notably for a wholesale restructuring of the current models for international assistance and responses to conflict and for new forms of engagement between Western and Global South countries.

Prior to joining the Stimson Center, Aude served as an associate director at the Atlantic Council's New American Engagement Initiative. She was also a mobile safety advisor based in the Lake Chad Basin at the International NGO Safety Organisation, where she performed empirical analysis on organized armed groups, and provided support for security related issues and access to humanitarian NGOs. She also worked in Guinea at Search For Common Ground, where she was responsible for peacebuilding program development, advocacy, and external relations with donors and institutional partners. Aude has experience working a wide range of issues related to preventing conflict, strengthening civil society organizations and good governance, and supporting women and youth empowerment, in particular in West Africa. She also has experience in research, strategic communication, and program management.

She is from Martinique, in the Caribbean, and she holds a Master of Science in Conflict Studies from the London School of Economics and Political Science and a Bachelor of Arts in International Relations and International Law from the University of Quebec in Montreal. She is fluent in French, Creole, and English.

Aude has been published in Atlantic Council, Foreign Policy, InkStick, Just Security. She has also been interviewed and featured as a speaker in Chicago Council on Global Affairs, CNBC Africa, France 24, NHK World, Responsible Stratecraft, US Congress House's Foreign Affairs Committee, VOA News.

JEREMI SURI

Jeremi Suri holds the Mack Brown Distinguished Chair for Leadership in Global Affairs at The University of Texas at Austin. He is a professor in the university's Department of History and the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs.

Professor Suri is the author and editor of ten books on contemporary politics and foreign policy. His most recent books are "The Impossible Presidency: The Rise and Fall of America's Highest Office" and "Modern Diplomacy in Practice". Suri's other books include "Henry Kissinger and the American Century," "Liberty's Surest Guardian: American Nation-Building from the Founders to Obama," "Foreign Policy Breakthroughs: Cases in Successful Diplomacy", and "The Power of the Past: History and Statecraft". Professor Suri writes for major newspapers and magazines including The New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, CNN, Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, Dallas Morning News, Houston Chronicle, Boston Globe, New Republic, and Wired. He appears frequently on television and radio news programs.

Dr. Suri graduated from Stanford University, Ohio University, and Yale University.

ROBERT SUTTER

His area of focus is the United States' policies towards Asia and the Pacific. Sutter has also taught at Georgetown, Johns Hopkins, and the University of Virginia. Sutter served as National Intelligence Officer for East Asia and the Pacific at the US Government's National Intelligence Council and the China Division Director at the Department of State's Bureau of Intelligence and Research.

Sutter has published 20 books and over 200 articles on the relationship between the United States and East Asian and Pacific countries.

Robert Sutter earned his Ph.D. in History and East Asian Languages from Harvard University.

MEGAN HOGAN

Megan Hogan, research analyst at the Peterson Institute for International Economics since August 2021, is a 2022–23 Eranda Rothschild Foundation Junior Fellow.* She works with Senior Fellows Jeffrey J. Schott and Gary Clyde Hufbauer on trade issues.

Hogan is the founder of DisinfoLab, a student-led research lab based at the College of William & Mary's Global Research Institute. The lab was founded to track bot network disinformation on Twitter and educate US citizens of the threat of foreign disinformation campaigns on social media platforms.

Hogan earned her bachelor's degrees in international relations and in economics from William & Mary.

SHANE HARRIS

Shane Harris is an investigative journalist at the Washington Post where he covers cyber security, intelligence, and national security.

His work has appeared in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, Slate, TheAtlantic.com, Washingtonian, The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, National Journal, and the U.S. Naval Institute's Proceedings. He has provided analysis and commentary for CNN, NPR, the BBC, The History Channel, National Geographic, several foreign media organizations, and many local public radio stations.

Harris is the winner of the 2010 Gerald R. Ford Prize for Distinguished Reporting on National Defense. He has four times been named a finalist for the Livingston Awards for Young Journalists. He is the author of The Watchers: The Rise of America's Surveillance State, which won the New York Public Library's Helen Bernstein Book Award for Excellence in Journalism, and that the Economist named one of the best books of 2010 and @War: The Rise of the Military-Internet Complex. Shane Harris is an outstanding non-fiction and fiction writer. As a fiction writer, he had the honor of being a Sundance Film Festival screenwriter finalist. As a non-fiction writer, he received an honorable mention from the judges of the Edgar A. Poe Award, given by the White House Correspondents' Association for excellence in coverage of news of national or regional significance for this work on Chinese cyber espionage.

Mr. Harris graduated from Wake Forest University with a B.A. in Politics.